ENGINEER SEAMAN RESIGNS

THE P. S. COMMISSIONER'S EX-PERT GIVEN UP HIS JOB

Objected to Having His Plans for the Tri-borough Subway Changed. The Consulting Engineer Sealed Things Down to Save Several Million Dollars.

Discussions between the members of the Public Service Commission and Henry B. Seaman, chief engineer of the board, have caused Mr. Seaman to tender his resignation. The resignation has not yet been acted upon, but it will be accepted and meanwhile Mr. Seaman has been relieved of the responsibility of his office. It was learned yesterday that the differences have arisen because the members of the board after conferences with three consulting engineers made many changes in the plans which Mr. Seaman has prepared for the new tri-borough route. It was said at the offices of the commission yesterday that had the plans for the new route been accepted the cost of the new route would have been several million dollars more than the $12,000,000 which, it is thought, will pay the cost of constructing the route under the revised plans. Mr. Seaman, it was said yesterday, objected to having his plans altered by the outside engineers and the attitude he had taken had been so emphatic that his resignation was asked for. Before this decision on the part of the board could be put into effect Mr. Seaman went to Europe on a vacation and it was not until yesterday that a culmination came of the trouble.

The disposition to control and direct the detailed management of the engineering department without regard to recommendations of the chief engineer has led to its utter demoralization. If this condition continues in the prosecution of work estimated at $12,000,000, the result will be a disaster to the work and to the reputation of the company responsible for it. Chairman Wilcox is away from town and in his absence acting Chairman McFarrell made this statement: Months ago when the tri-borough plans were approaching completion the commission considered that because of their importance they should be most carefully studied. Commissioners Malloy, Bassett and Easton were appointed a committee and were aided by consulting engineers. The members of the committee insisted on the right to secure the fullest information possible. Acting on its judgment and on advice obtained, the committee from time to time suggested changes in the plans and it may be said that on the important ones Mr. Seaman after discussion agreed. Conditions finally, however, became such that the commission felt it necessary to ask for the resignation of its chief engineer. As a matter of fact for over a month Mr. Seaman has been on leave of absence and Alfred Craven has been acting chief engineer.

George S. Rice, who succeeded William Barclay Parsons as the chief engineer of the old Rapid Transit commission, and who became chief of the bureau of subway construction when the present commission came into being, has also resigned. He explained yesterday that his work had been retained to do, that he felt that to determine if the tri-borough had good ground for its claim against the city for about $5,000,000 for extra work, had been brushed and that therefore he felt that his usefulness to the commission had ended. He will start in practice for himself.

Woman Who Fooled Jury Pleads Guilty.

Margaret Ryan, the Brooklyn domestic who was acquitted on Wednesday of robbing her employer by a jury in the County Court, much to the surprise of Judge Fawcett, who told them that they had been badly fooled by the woman, was arraigned in the same court yesterday on an indictment for a similar offense. She promptly made a plea of guilty and was remanded for sentence.

MME. INGOMAR IN COURT.

"Seeress" Who Must Miss GAZZAM for $150,000 Held as Fortune Teller.

Jennie Harris, who when she reads the future is known as Mme. Ingomar, seeress, of 43 West Fifty-second street and who gained considerable notice a year ago by suing Miss Antonette, Elizabeth Gazzam for $150,000, was arraigned before Magistrate Appleton in the Yorkville court yesterday afternoon as a fortune teller.

The complainant was James E. Dougherty, 50 years old, a real estate dealer and former policeman, in business at 821 Fifty-ninth street, Brooklyn. He testified that on September 8 he visited the defendant's residence in answer to her advertisement in a newspaper. The advertisement was entered as evidence. Dougherty said that Mme. Ingomar took him to her home and in so doing carefully looked at the initials "J. E. D." marked on his forehead. He gave her a dollar to tell his fortune, he said, but she could not tell his name, although she predicted that he would be successful in October of this and next year; also that he had crossed the ocean many times. "I have never been across the river to Jersey City even," Dougherty told the court.

After Dougherty left Mme. Ingomar went to the detective bureau and told her story. Mme. Ingomar was arrested four days later by Detectives Skelly and Gallagher. She was held in the house at that time and the case was adjourned until yesterday. Gerson Oppenheim, the defendant's lawyer, asserted that Mme. Ingomar did nothing more than advise Dougherty that he would not be successful. He placed her under $1,000 bond to preserve the peace and demand from practicing fortune-telling. The court also announced that she would not be allowed to appear in court at that time and the case was adjourned until yesterday.

The lieutenant also stated that Mme. Ingomar was known in San Francisco in 1904 as Mme. Pandora. The following year she appeared in St. Louis as Countess Sonora. In 1906 she was in Chicago as Mrs. Marshall Clark, her husband being Marshal Niblo, a clairvoyant. During September, 1909, Mme. Ingomar brought suit against Miss Gazzam in Chicago for the alleged alienation of her husband and affections. The suit was settled outside the court. Miss Gazzam indicated a fortune estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000 and the estate known as Storm King, back of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson.
